

SPECIAL NOTICES.

MY FORMER PATRONS AND THE PUBLIC generally are hereby notified that I have disposed of the ownership in business at 625 Louisiana ave. in this city, heretofore known as the Washington Showcases, and have no further interest in the same.

WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE FOR ANY debts contracted by any other person than myself. JOHN KIDWELL, Jr., 1213 G St. N.W.

THE NURSES' EXAMINING BOARD OF THE District of Columbia will hold an examination for registration of nurses Wednesday, November 1, 1916. Applications must be made before November 1, 1916, to the Secretary, H. E. STOKES, 1114 10th St. N.W., and receive a card.

IF ANY ONE HAS ANY INFORMATION regarding the accident which occurred at Thomas Circle last Friday night please notify Mrs. J. MARSHALL, 1142 10th St. N.W., and receive reward.

THE FURNITURE OF WASHINGTON WISH to inform their patrons that owing to the increase in price of materials they will have to increase the price of showing on and after November 1, 1916.

BARKER
—THE MAN TO SEE IF
YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT
BEAVER BOARD
Best substitute for Lath and Plaster.
420 NEW YORK AVE.—1417 SEVENTH ST.

GOOD PRINTING PAYS
—You can always count on getting good results when you use good printing—
Adams Printing.

THE SERVICE SHOP
BYRON S. ADAMS, PRINTER,
512 11th St. N.W.
Better Window Shades—Better
Service—Lower Prices.

The Shade Shop 1010 14th St. N.W.
Printing That's Different
AT PRICES THAT ARE ALWAYS SAVING.

National Capital Press
217 1st St. N.E. Phone M. 450 (in trunk line).

Have Your Eyeglasses
Made in Our Modern Optical Plant.

—We make Eyeglasses to order and they are scientifically correct.

M. A. LEESE OPTICAL CO.
THE ONLY ROOF PAINT
—that has a record of over 45 years of unvarying satisfactory service to its users
—our IRONCLAD ROOF PAINT—resists rust and decay and lasts for years. TRY IT!

IRONCLAD Roofing, 528 13th St. N.W.
Company, Phone Main 14.

That Metal Ceiling
Is Artistic as well as Fireproof.

Sharpening Razor Blades
The keenest edge—Reasonable charge.

RUDOLPH & WEST CO.
1322 NEW YORK AVE. N.W.

FOR RENT—OFFICE ROOMS IN THE STAR building, two-room suite, fourth floor, overlooking Pennsylvania Avenue, rent $10.00 per month, third floor, overlooking 11th St., $40.00 per month, including service. Inquire Room 100, Star Building.

Reduce Your "Overhead" —expenses to a minimum by placing your roof under a GRAFTONIC GUARANTEE.
We're experts at repairing and painting roofs. Write or phone for estimate.

Grafton & Son, Inc., 407 14th St. N.W.
Excel in Legal Printing.

—We print Lawyers' Briefs and Motions promptly, neatly and accurately.

Judd & Detweiler, Inc.
THE BIG PRINT SHOP, 234-422 11th.

A BOOK SHOP
—which has the best BOOKS, STATION-ERY, CARDS, etc., is anticipated and where charges are attractively reasonable.

MURSELL, Bookstore and Stationery,
807 G St. N.W.

CONSOLIDATED CAR SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.
217 1st St. N.E. Phone M. 450 (in trunk line).

PAINTING
HAVE YOUR HAND HEAD BY MR. DAVID,
the well known scientific painter.
Residence, 1112 10th St. N.W. Meetings, Mon.
Wed., 2 p.m. and Fri. 7:30 p.m. See A message to each. Daily readings, $1. North 4290.

SPIRITUALISTS
MRS. J. E. MALTBY, SPIRITUAL MEDIUM,
1112 10th St. N.W. Meetings, Mon.
Wed., 2 p.m. and Fri. 7:30 p.m. See A message to each. Daily readings, $1. North 4290.

Abe Martin Says:

Constable Plum says some folks eat a roastin' 'er like their wuz a valuable prize waitin' fer 'em at th' other end.

Why don't none one design a different lookin' trophy cup?

Indiana Progressives Bolt.

VALPARAISO, Ind., October 23.—
M. J. Bowman, candidate for lieutenant governor on the progressive ticket in Indiana, has announced that he will vote for Charles E. Hughes for President.
A number of other progressives made similar announcements following the statement of Bowman.

CELESTINS
VICHY
(FRENCH REPUBLIC PROPERTY)
Natural Alkaline Water

SPLITS are now on sale and can be obtained at all first-class Hotels, Dars and Restaurants.

ASK FOR CELESTINS

PARKS DISTRICT
TO BE BEAUTIFUL

Col. Harts Gives Board of Trade Committee Glimpse
Into the Future.

PRETTIER WATER FRONT

Development of Washington's park system along lines that will make it both beautiful and unique, and the extension of it to the water front in such manner that not only will the water front be beautified but that increased commercial facilities will also be afforded formed the subject of discussion when the committee on parks and reservations of the Board of Trade, headed by Judge C. S. Bundy, yesterday afternoon met with Col. W. Harts, United States Army engineer officer in charge of public buildings and grounds. The members of the committee went to the office of Col. Harts, following a regular meeting in the room of the board, at which the annual report of the committee was adopted.

Col. Harts recently addressed the committee on the plans for the development of the park system, and the meeting with him yesterday was largely to supplement the former one. Col. Harts showed the board committee scores of maps, photographs and other illustrations.

Tells of Plans for Future.

Under Col. Harts' guidance the committee has taken forward step by step into the plans for the future, both near and more distant. Many phases embodied in the general plan for the development of Washington, city of beautiful parks, were given special consideration. By way of giving additional weight that these features are not merely mental visions, but rather are realities of the future, Col. Harts showed a copy of the original map made by L'Enfant when Washington was yet a wilderness. The map was shown to be accurate, despite the fact it was drawn when Washington was non-existent, and Col. Harts pointed out that if such a plan were possible for L'Enfant to conceive plans for further development of the National Capital should be practically unlimited to those now living.

For Beautiful Water Front.

Nothing created deeper interest among members of the committee probably than did the plans for the development along the Washington harbor. Col. Harts explained, using various illustrations, that it was planned to make this water front beautiful with parks and boulevards. "Will this interfere with the commerce of the city?" inquired Frank P. Leach, vice chairman of the committee. "We want to see the parks improved in every possible way, but at the same time we don't want to see anything done which will hurt the commerce of Washington," Col. Harts explained. "The plans contemplated will not injure the commerce of the city, but, on the other hand, should greatly improve it." He assured Col. Harts, he then explained that through the preparation and arrangement of land along the water front not now being used, the facilities would be increased. Also, he pointed out, space would be allowed for street cars greatly in excess of that now available.

"We have improved water fronts in many places, particularly Europe," explained Col. Harts. "In a large number of cases the amount of commerce carried on is much greater than that of Washington." He then presented a substantiation of this, photographs of Boulogne and Paris, France; Seville, Spain; Dresden, Germany; and London, England; Petrograd, Russia; Budapest, Hungary; and Vienna, Austria, both of which, he said, were better than Washington. Syracuse, Italy; Rotterdam, Holland; Boston, Mass.; and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Col. Harts said he believed the improvement of the city's water front would make for the improvement of the buildings along it.

Progress on the Mall Plan.

The Mall plan, said Col. Harts, at another point, is nearing completion steadily. He displayed a large map, showing the buildings which had already been completed in this plan and those which yet remained to be erected.

Col. Harts stated that he thought work to obtain the memorial bridge, which it is planned to have connecting Potomac Park near the Lincoln memorial, and Virginia, should be begun. The prize plan for such a bridge years ago cannot be used now, he said, in view of the fact that it is so elaborate it would detract from the beauties of the Lincoln memorial. A simple bridge is needed now, he thought.

Plans for the development of East Potomac Park, with its west stadium, where the games played may be witnessed by 40,000 persons; its two large swimming pools; its wading pool; its numerous baseball fields; tennis, croquet and roque courts; its fine harbor for small watercraft; its driveways, golf course, tea-houses and numerous other features of interest, were discussed by Col. Harts. He showed members of the committee a miniature plan of this park, which is to be the great recreation center of Washington, and explained that work would be carried on for its development as expeditiously as possible.

Plays Are Contemplated.

He also showed a small model of Memorial Hill Park, maps showing both the inner and outer circuits in the great park extension system which is gradually being developed, plan for the reflection basin near the Washington Monument and the sylvan theater in Potomac Park. The latter, he explained, is expected to be completed by next summer, and already arrangements have been made for four Greek dances. A number of plays are also contemplated.

Members of the committee thanked Col. Harts for his attention. Incorporated in the report adopted prior to the committee's visiting the office of Col. Harts was a minute commending Col. Harts for his interest and for his plans in carrying out the park system.

Recommendations of Committee.

The report of the committee, as adopted at the business meeting, makes the following recommendations:

As large an appropriation as can be economically expended for the purchase of lands required for the park system to connect the Potomac and Zoological parks be made.

That the public parks, being for the recreation and enjoyment of all the people, without distinction of high or low, rich or poor, the Washington Board of Trade views with hearty approval and commendation every means devised to promote unlimited use of the parks at the least possible expense; and that end if it recommends the installation of one or more well ordered and equipped recreation ferries across the Washington channel from South Washington to the East Potomac Park.

Continued liberal appropriations to push on the foundations of the Anacostia Aquatic Park.

That land to the westward of Q Street bridge be purchased for a small park to safeguard the approaches to said bridge against improper structures.

The purchase of land for a public park in Pine Branch Valley.

The purchase of the Dean tract for a public park.

Would Develop Water Front.

That a bill be introduced in Congress to authorize the proper officers of the government to prepare a plan for development of the city's water front.

That a conservative plan for the development of Rock Creek Park be prepared at an early day, to which it should conform in all stages of its development.

The report calls attention to work which has already been done toward the completion of Washington's park plans.

Calling attention to the vote of Congress at its session just closed to appropriate $50,000 for the acquisition of land between the Potomac and Zoological parks, the report says this "may well be regarded as an event of the highest importance, since it removes every doubt as to the determination of Congress to see this great work carried forward to completion. Its effect will soon be seen in the disappearance of the hideous mounds of dump that have marred the natural beauties of Rock Creek valley during the last ten years, and what is, if possible, more important, it has opened the way to a happy solution of a difficult and vexatious question which has divided the councils of Washington and Georgetown ever since the founding of this city."

There Is No Jewish Vote.

To the Editor of The Star:
For sixty years I have been in direct opposition to any suggestion that would favor the so-called idea of a Jewish, Irish, German or negro vote. I have refused time and again to speak before any Jewish audience, as such, in favor of one or the other candidates, either local or national. I have refused to say that as an American citizen, irrespective of nationality or faith, I am entitled to my opinion and convictions, and so is every other citizen, and that it is the duty of every citizen to express his opinion. We owe no thanks to any one in power for appointing one of our faith to any position of honor or responsibility. The sole question as to the right of being appointed consists in the fitness and ability of the candidate. Any other consideration would be prejudicial to all the equities and to all the best traditions of our government.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

While it is true that republican Presidents have appointed democratic judges and to other responsible positions, it is yet a consummation in the future when a democrat has recognized the same liberal spirit.

I find that from the days of Lincoln up to the present Presidents have appointed American citizens of Jewish faith to important positions by virtue of the principle above enunciated. Members of the cabinet, ambassadors, ministers, judges and other officials of trust have thus been conferred, and no credit is due to the one that appoints or to the one that is appointed. The principle is the same, and the appointing power, conscious of the responsibility vested in him, recognizes all that is worthy of American citizenship as worthy of American citizenship, and that the recipient recognizes party affiliations and not sectarian motives.

QUEEN MARY HOLDS
COURT NEXT WEEK

She Will Be Attended by 1,700 of the Nobility in Chrysanthemum World.

PUBLIC MAY LOOK ON

"Queen Mary" is to hold her court in Washington all next week, attended by more than 1,700 nobility. The United States government invites all to pay her their respects.

That is to say that the annual "mum" show of the Department of Agriculture is to be open for twelve hours each day—9 a.m. to 9 p.m.—starting Monday and continuing through Sunday.

Queen Mary, be it known, is the one finest chrysanthemum bloom in the entire show. It represents the best that expert scientists, horticultural experts and gardeners employed by Uncle Sam under the bureau of plant industry can propagate.

There are more than 1,000 of the large, fluffy chrysanthemums banked in the center of the greenhouse at 14th and B streets northwest, awaiting the inspection of the public. But one bud was nurtured on each plant, but its bloom might represent the very best in form and coloring that it is possible to produce.

More Than 700 Plants.

Arranged on shelves at little else are more than 700 bushy little plants just laden down with blooms of the single and quilled petal and pompon varieties. All of the plants in the show are slips from last March or seedlings raised this season by the experimental greenhouses of the bureau of plant industry, of which Dr. William A. Taylor is chief.

While it is to be no formality about the show, the public is simply invited to come at its leisure and see the blooms which are said by the superlatives to be the best of the season that they ever have been.

And when the visitors have seen the chrysanthemums they will have the privilege of inspecting the other greenhouses. There are but two of these houses quarantined, and those are because of study that is being made of citrus canker, a disease that has invaded the orange groves of tropical and subtropical states.

Among the houses that will be open is the new rosehouse, which is now crowded full of carnations. There is another house full of roses, several in which orange trees may be seen in bloom and in fruit, a house for tropical cacti, and many other interesting plant growths.

Interesting-New Blooms.

But the big show is that of chrysanthemums. And there are a number of interesting new blooms. All of the old favorites are there in luxuriant development and coloring.

One of the very best is the "Dawn of Day," a big yellow mop of petals shaded to red. The "Bob Pulling" is an enormous cavity yellow. The "William R. Tricker" is an old favorite, a buster bloom of white with a delicate shading of pink.

The best of the bloom in the house is the "George H. Brown," which is of the "Vivian Morel" type. The James H. Brown, named after the former Secretary of Agriculture, is a large white flower that has always been much admired. Then there is a sturdy bronze bloom, the "William R. Sanders," named after a former superintendent.

The "Marigold" is a handsome globular-shaped cluster of yellow which turns pinkish as it ages.

One of the new blooms, which is expected to attract much attention, is the "J. T. Raynor." The petals are of red with yellow on the reverse side. This is a showy plant of the exhibition variety.

At a meeting of the club this evening Messrs. Massey, McCarthy and Fields will address the club.

Club Hears Talks by Members.

The Wilson and Marshall Club of Georgetown University Law School at a meeting Monday night in the law school building listened to addresses by four of its members. James M. Cathcart, president of the club, presided.

J. O'Hara spoke on the federal reserve act; B. E. Schlesinger gave an analysis of the electoral college; W. D. French gave his reasons why the young men of the country should support Woodrow Wilson and the democratic party; and John P. Ratso spoke on conditions in New Jersey, prophesying a big gain in the democratic vote.

At a meeting of the club this evening Messrs. Massey, McCarthy and Fields will address the club.

Club Hears Talks by Members.

The Wilson and Marshall Club of Georgetown University Law School at a meeting Monday night in the law school building listened to addresses by four of its members. James M. Cathcart, president of the club, presided.

J. O'Hara spoke on the federal reserve act; B. E. Schlesinger gave an analysis of the electoral college; W. D. French gave his reasons why the young men of the country should support Woodrow Wilson and the democratic party; and John P. Ratso spoke on conditions in New Jersey, prophesying a big gain in the democratic vote.

At a meeting of the club this evening Messrs. Massey, McCarthy and Fields will address the club.

Club Hears Talks by Members.

The Wilson and Marshall Club of Georgetown University Law School at a meeting Monday night in the law school building listened to addresses by four of its members. James M. Cathcart, president of the club, presided.

J. O'Hara spoke on the federal reserve act; B. E. Schlesinger gave an analysis of the electoral college; W. D. French gave his reasons why the young men of the country should support Woodrow Wilson and the democratic party; and John P. Ratso spoke on conditions in New Jersey, prophesying a big gain in the democratic vote.

At a meeting of the club this evening Messrs. Massey, McCarthy and Fields will address the club.

room with the reverse of the petals having a faded pink shade.

Showing of Pompons Good.

The showing of pompon seedlings is unusually good this year. One of the new ones, that has particularly pleased the government officials, is the "Mrs. Floyd R. Harrison," which was named yesterday. This is a sturdy little plant literally covered with pure white blooms.

The greenhouses where this exhibition is held are maintained by the government under the direction of the bureau of plant industry of the Department of Agriculture for experimental work. Here the government experts devote their talents and time to produce the very best plant breeds possible. As soon as particularly good plants are found they are shipped around to the various experimental stations maintained in the different states and to institutions.

The surplus blooms from these greenhouses are sent to the hospitals in Washington.

NEW CONSTITUTION ADOPTED.

Reorganization of Business High Alumni Goes Forward.

Actual reorganization of the Business High School Alumni Association took place at a meeting held at the school last night in the assembly hall of the school. The new constitution, drawn up by a special committee headed by W. C. Sullivan, was passed unanimously.

A series of theater benefits was announced by Clarence A. Woldman, president of the association. Tentative plans for a number of autumn and winter social activities were discussed, but no definite action will be taken until cards recently sent out by the association containing blank spaces for suggestions from members are returned. The various suggestions of interest will be considered and voted upon.

The meeting last night closed with dancing in the school gymnasium.

HAS OUTGROWN QUARTERS.

Colored Y. W. C. A. Plans to Purchase Larger Building.

The colored Young Women's Christian Association is to begin a campaign to secure better accommodations, having outgrown its present quarters at 429 G street northwest. Mrs. Stansbury Boyce, who succeeded Mrs. Hettie G. Francis as president of the local branch, is in charge of the movement.

Because of the fact that the association has been devoting most of its energies to looking after those girls who were in need of help, the welfare of the more fortunate girls has been to some extent neglected. It is planned to open more dormitories and clubrooms and to form classes in gymnastics.

Edmund S. Wolfe,
Cashier.

Robert N. Harper,
President.

District National Bank,
1406 G street.

Duty and Service.

No Bank's service should be so elastic that it violates its chartered duty.